Focusing on European Union law and international law is an essential factor development of legislation in other countries, including Ukraine. In view of this, the democratic changes need harmonious development of economic, political and legal systems.

This change in the legal system of Ukraine under European standards is an important step in European integration. However, to properly understand exactly the meaning and characteristics of European legislation must perfectly know the language in which it is written. International language is English, so it is difficult to overestimate the importance of the study of its lawyers, because they have precision understand the subtleties of European law to further its implementation in Ukrainian law. Therefore, the quality of English language teaching in all higher institutions of legal (and not just legal) should be at the highest level. Also future lawyer must Considering that higher education and jurisprudence is of particular public importance, in terms of further development of Ukrainian statehood, with its focus on European standards and values, the need for improving the existing system of training of lawyers is of particular relevance and significance both for the legal sphere, and for the functioning of civil society and state institutions. Especially those lawyers who will work in the field of international relations, should know English perfectly. Knowledge of law is the foundation of legal activity, so you need to understand the language in which the legislation is written.

As for the return of European integration Ukraine first of all we must understand that the questions of study of English by lawyers are rhetorical, because English is the universal field for the understanding of the law of different countries. Ignorance of the language makes it impossible to follow the work of lawyers internationally.
