Unification of Standards Law Enforcement: Issues of Theory and Practice

Feature of the modern State of development of the system of law enforcement in Europe is strengthening interagency cooperation, law-enforcement and judicial bodies of countries of the EU, the creation of special supranational structures, which also play an important role in the fight against crime, along with national law enforcement authorities.

It's about supranational bodies also provide law enforcement activities, namely: the European police (designated authorities) Directorate General of Internal Affairs; Eurojust; The European Office of fraud; the European information network in the field of Justice, etc., and is the main law enforcement agencies of the EU, created with the aim of promoting cooperation between the Member States in the fight against transnational organized crime.

The article analyzes the theoretical and practical aspects related to the unification of standards enforcement. Considered in this context, the activities of a number of supranational institutions, responsible for the development and implementation of international standards in the field of law enforcement attention. given, in particular, Europol and Eurojust, the General Directorate of Internal Affairs, etc.

Standards enforcement due to the influence of integration processes, joint supranational policy in the sphere of Internal Affairs and the protection of human rights. Believe that they can be defined as the totality of reforming rules and principles that have been developed and adopted by the Member States of the EU, specifically authorized by the institutions of the EU, with the aim of unifying principles of law enforcement, the forms and methods of work law enforcement officials a generally recognized democratic values, to strengthen national and European law, the protection of the rights and freedoms of human and citizen.

Without a doubt, in the sphere of law enforcement partners reach a unified position, the implementation of a common policy requires considerable effort. This once again indicates the aspects and social importance of the problem, more complicated complex of problems, the need for continuous improvement and development of the mechanism of realization of law enforcement.
